

FULL MOON

VOL. 1 NO. 1

OCTOBER — 76

Welcome

Welcome to the FULL MOON, a newspaper serving students of St. James Campus and bringing the eight other George Brown Campuses up-to-date with what we are doing here at St. James. We boast to be the only G.B.C. Campus which publishes a monthly newspaper and we are happy to have our newspaper circulated in all the campuses.

Perhaps the best way to explain our genesis and purpose is by adopting the traditional journalist's system: Who, What, Where, Why, How. So, under these five time-honoured headings are the answers from my perspective.

WHO? Full Moon
WHAT? A monthly newspaper

WHERE? Serving students and staff of St. James Campus and to a smaller extent, students and staff of all the other G.B.C. Campuses.

WHY? This paper has been generated by the hard work of a past graduate of St. James Campus, Paul Harvey. He showed tremendous dedication and sense of responsibility in ensuring that the Full Moon was published every month.

The Full Moon covers almost all the important happenings at St. James Campus and around George Brown College as a whole.

In many ways this newspaper serves an important purpose. We are in the process of resolving many important issues related to students' welfare at St. James Campus and this newspaper will serve to bring students up-to-date with the developments as time goes by.

This should be an interesting year for us and you will undoubtedly play an important role in some of our accomplishments.

Readers' letters and comments on any issue related to students' interest are most welcome.

HOW? The Full Moon cannot succeed without a larger staff of writers, cartoonists, artists and photographers. If you are interested in any of these areas, we are interested in you. You will find that being part of the newspaper staff is an interesting experience and a lot of fun.

Mr. Sykes — Principal.

GEORGE BROWN 1818 - 1880

Statesman - Politician - Journalist Father of Confederation

Son of Peter Brown, an Edinburgh merchant, and Isabella Mackenzie, George Brown was born forty miles up the Forth at Alloa, November 29th, 1818. He grew up in the Citadel of Scottish Education and within the High School and Southern Academy of Edinburgh.

At the age of twenty, George Brown migrated, with his father Peter Brown, to New York where, in 1842, they established the British Chronicle, a Journal for British emigrants. In 1843, the Browns moved to Toronto where they launched the Banner (1843-1848), a Free Church Presbyterian weekly. In 1844 Brown founded the Globe as a weekly, and in 1853, it became a daily.

George Brown was a man of deep convictions. Under his forceful editorship the Globe became a leader of political and educational enterprise. This was manifest when the Globe, in 1853, having absorbed its two main reform rivals, became a daily which acquired an influence unequalled by any Canadian Journal since that day.

Through the pages of the Globe, and the spell of his forthrightness, George Brown dominated the Liberal Party for over two decades.

George Brown opposed all church-affiliated schools. He advocated representation by population, to give large population groups in Western Canada their proper place in the Assembly. He ardently advocated the annexation of Hudson's Bay lands. His hastily reorganized Reform Party, which swept the western polls in 1857, was in 1858 put out of power after Brown had ruled two days as Premier of the Province.

1864 led George Brown to hold statesmanship when he agreed to enter a coalition government with his Conservative rivals and the day he rose and walked forward to meet Sir John A. Macdonald in the Assembly he made possible the birth of Confederation.

Naturally, strong individualists could not always see eye to eye, and it was a distinct loss when he resigned from the government in 1865. However, he still ardently worked for and supported Confederation until its consummation. Sir John A. Macdonald, political giant that he was, so weakened Browns leadership by taking able Liberals into his cabinet that in the elections of Confederation year 1867, Brown was defeated.

George Brown withdrew from active politics, but exercised his editorial power through the leadership given in the pages of the Globe. In 1873 Alexander Mackenzie appointed him to the Senate where his influence was cut short in his sixty-second year by a bullet fired by a disgruntled employee. May 12th, 1880, was the day of the funeral for a great Scot, a commanding journalist, an ardent politician, and a Founding Father.

The George Brown College is dedicated to the principles enunciated by this great man. Human dignity is founded not only upon political freedom but also on the development of skills and knowledge that allow one to make a significant contribution to the well being of the community.

CLUBS...

The Clubs on Campus all operate under the umbrella of the Student Council. The Student Council is requesting that all Clubs submit a list of their planned activities one month in advance. This will ensure proper planning and enough time for teachers to be informed in case special arrangements have to be made.

All clubs are asked to co-operate with the Student Council on this issue so that we can ensure the smooth operation of everything on Campus.

If you want to get some information on these clubs, you can go down to the Student Council office, room 124. If you don't know any of the people listed in the clubs then ask the secretary Liz Moran about them and she will gladly direct you to the proper rooms in which these clubs are located.

Also, clubs do not continue on their own. They need members, so if you are interested, go and join up. Don't be shy because you will be helping both the club and yourself.

Black Students Union

The Black Students Union of St. James Campus would like to officially welcome all new students to this fast growing multicultural campus. A personal invitation is extended to all interested students, new and old, who would like to be a member of the Black Students Union. Our main goal is to bring all black student's interests together while maintaining the peaceful and united atmosphere already existing at St. James Campus. For more information leave your name and home form number with the J.S.C. Secretary in room 124 at your convenience.

Grant to finance...

The newly-formed Multicultural History Society of Ontario has been awarded a three million dollar Wintario grant geared to promote ethnic community histories and the contributions by the province's diverse cultural groups in the shaping of "a Canadian Society".

The group, made up of university professors, has a goal to develop and promote ethnic history studies as they relate to Ontario communities, record events in archives and encourage the publication of history books dealing with immigrant communities and their involvement in building the province.

University of Toronto history chairman, Professor Maurice Careless is head of the society.

MPP Nick Leluk of the Ministry of Culture and Recreation criticized those people who would criticize Government for spending this amount of money in this time of government restraint.

He asked: "Is our heritage a frill? Is the cultural diversity which enriches all our lives a frill?" He added that it would be foolish to deny "our heritage by neglect".

Chairman of the Ontario Advisory Council on Multiculturalism, Dr. George Korey, said that multiculturalism is a unique aspect of the Canadian peoples.

"Multiculturalism is a basic philosophy that guides all to deal with each other as individual human beings and that all considerations come after the basic human rights have been recognized," he said.

He added: "What makes Canada unique is that while we work to preserve and to strengthen internal ethnic identities, our goal is a people, proud of the roots of their forefathers, but prouder still of being Canadians today."

OUR CAFE

EVENING SOUND STEREO

by David Singh

Patience is virtue. Good things come to those who wait. For those who have been at St. James Campus from its opening late last year, and note the progress (slow but sure) we have been making, they will agree that the above statements are true.

St. James Campus was at the time of its opening nothing more than 'a building with classrooms'. The washrooms were incomplete, the heating system was very poor, the elevator was inadequate, and of course, there was no cafeteria.

There was just no way of students obtaining anything to eat except to go to the restaurants outside of the Campus. This was quite an experience for it was in the middle of winter and could you imagine getting dressed up very warmly just to obtain a coffee? The Human Resources Centre started providing coffee and donuts for students. This was something that was most welcomed by the students and teachers. I remember having long line-ups of students just waiting to have a coffee.

Administration apparently started to realize that we were human beings and we have needs which must be satisfied and a lunch room (still operating on the fifth floor) was provided. Although only a limited amount of food items could be obtained yet it was most welcomed. It satisfied the needs of all at St. James Campus while it was being looked forward to the day when we would have a 'proper' cafeteria.

Well it is here at last.

Last week Mr. John Phoenix, Food Service Manager, explained to me the way the cafeteria (located in the basement) will operate. The cafeteria is beautifully designed and on completion will be a masterpiece for St. James Campus.

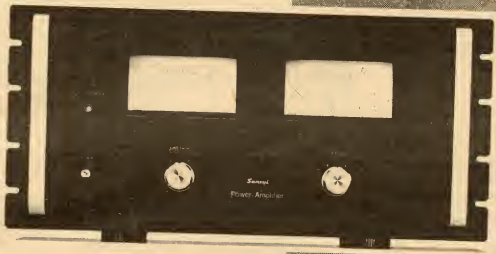

There will be a 'hamburger' section to be operated similar to 'McDonald's Restaurant'. Next to this will be a 'hot food' section which will also carry fresh salads. The third section will be the 'the delicatessen'.

You are invited to submit suggestions for names of the different sections. A name for the overall cafeteria is also required. Special prizes will be given for the best names suggested. Suggestions can be submitted to room 124 as soon as possible.

Do you know — Community College graduates are finding it much easier to obtain jobs than University graduates? "Companies prefer to hire Community College graduates rather than University graduates," a prominent businessman is quoted as saying.

"They are easier to train, it is as simple as that. Community College graduates already understand the basics of the job."

Canadian University graduates — men and women — Bachelors of Art, Doctors of Chemistry, Engineers and Lawyers are learning that a University degree carries no guarantee of work. A degree does not promise social esteem. A degree does not ensure a decent job or a living wage. What makes this lesson so painful is that this has not always been the case. Previously, as recently as the sixties, a University education was a sure way of attaining high social esteem, whereas, in the seventies the rules appear to have changed.

Maybe it is time for high school students to be told about this new set of rules. Maybe they should be warned away from full-time University, maybe they should be told of the alternatives — Community Colleges, part-time degrees, arts and crafts, trades and travel. Maybe it should be clearly spelled out that a University degree no longer leads to sweet economic security. And — heresy of heresies — that a degree may even be a bad investment. Bad, both for the individual and the country.

For a long time it has been a North American article of faith that higher education produces national well-being. But as historian Desmond Morton says: "Unfortunately after a decade of unprecedented educational investment, the Canadian economy appears to be at a dead stop." University of Toronto sociologist Edward Harvey, an education specialist, wrote three years ago: "From the citizens' viewpoint, the hard-earned dollars poured into education have given no perceptible social or economic returns. While his 'investment' has increased, Canada has slumped to an economic recession." So an abundance of University degrees may no longer be considered assurance of a nation's success.

STUDENT EVALUATION

The assessment and evaluation of the student's work is ongoing and continuous and is not simply a question of passing occasional tests and examinations.

A student's grade is evaluated on the basis of competence and for those qualities required for a successful career, such as attitude, co-operation and punctuality. He is, therefore, expected to exhibit these qualities in his behaviour as a student.

Be sure to complete your term work. If you miss tests, fail to hand in assignments, etc., you will usually be marked 0% for that particular test or assignment. This will seriously reduce your average mark.

A minimum grade point average of 2.0 is needed to complete a program successfully. "Honour" standing may be awarded to graduating students who attain a grade point average of 3.5 or more, with approval of the chairman of the division.

ORIENTATION DAY...

by Elaine Spencer

Tuesday, September 7th was the beginning of another semester at St. James Campus. It was a memorable day for some 550 students joining us for the first time. The FULL MOON and all returning students at the College extend a warm welcome to all you newcomers.

The Buddy System, devised several years ago to help accustom new students to college life, once again proved to be a worthwhile endeavour. A campus tour conducted by the "buddies" was an excellent way for incoming students to become more familiar with their new surroundings. In fact, several commented that the assistance and friendliness of the buddies really made them feel "at home". Thanks, buddies!

Orientation Day activities also included an hour-long program held in the Atrium and planned by Student Council. Fourth semester Secretarial Science student Elaine Spencer acted as emcee for the program which featured addresses by Mr. Malcolm Sykes, Principal at St. James and Mr. David Singh, President of the St. James Student Council.

Mr. Sykes, also new to the campus this year, welcomed everyone and expressed his desire to keep the channels of communication open between administration and students. The diverse backgrounds of students on this campus make St. James somewhat unique. Mr. Sykes felt that a spirit of understanding, respect, and friendship is essential if students intend to benefit fully from their education at the College. He expressed his willingness to be of help at all times and invited students to visit him in his office on the first floor.

Student Council President David Singh also stressed the value of unity between various ethnic and cultural groups on campus.

He outlined some proposed activities for the year and ended by saying, "The spirit of St. James is second to none". Students were invited to get involved with J.S.C. Activities. A visit to the Council Office, room 124, is a great beginning.

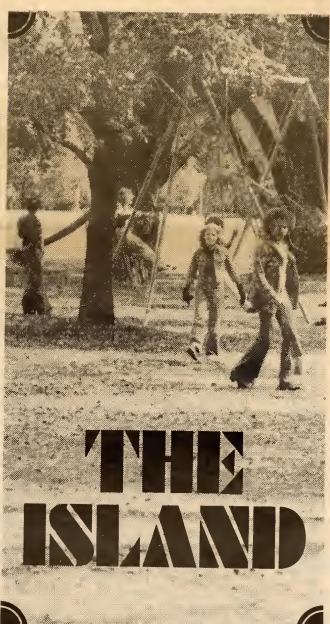

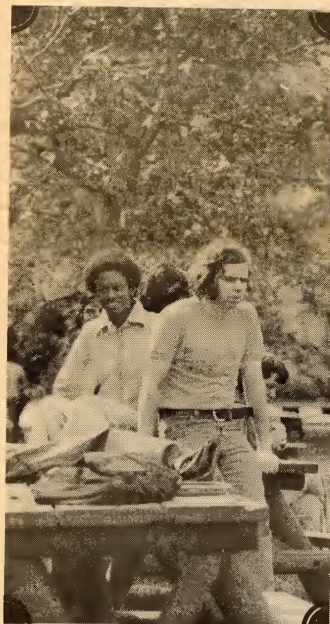

Dean of Business and Commerce, Mr. Jim Turner, added his words of welcome and expressed his appreciation for the work done by Student Council and the buddies in getting the semester off to a good start. Others introduced included Health Centre Nurse, Mrs. Marjorie Poole; Counselling Services staff member, Mr. Fred Strong; and Student Council Treasurer Mohammed Marfatia, Vice-President Pablo Leacock and Social Convenor Cliff Mendez are other Student Council executives.

Following the Atrium program, students and buddies enjoyed a delicious buffet lunch, courtesy of the Student Council and with the able assistance of one Colonel Saunders.

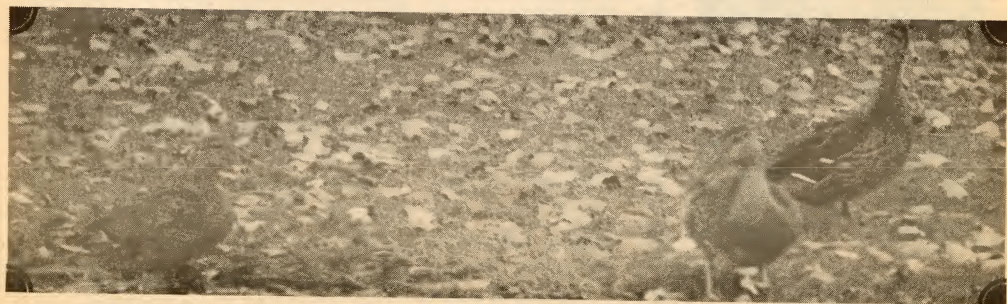

The tremendous turnout of new students and the participation of administration and staff combined to give everyone —

A HAPPY DAY.

Students returning to school here at St. James Campus, cannot fail to notice many noteworthy changes at this infant institution.

Apart from a very impressive orientation programme, in which new students were shown around Campus by "buddies" and then welcomed and feted in the Atrium on opening day, one notices that study booths have appeared in some lounges, directories have been placed at the entrances and several other cosmetic additions have enhanced the general appearance of the building.

The personnel of the Student Council has changed too — some are of the opinion that this is for the better — and in an effort to discover what plans they have in mind for the new year, I interviewed each member of the new executives.

The first thing one notices with these officials, is their willingness to listen to suggestions and their desire to keep the communications line open between themselves and students.

Guyanese born David Singh is in the fourth semester of his Business Administration Course and he is certainly enthusiastic about his new post as President. It consumes a lot of his time and energy, but he nevertheless enjoys dabbling in student affairs. "I love organization," he intimidated, "and I will serve the students conscientiously," he added. And his department certainly gives one the impression that he would keep his word.

Speaking in his office, in which he several times had to reprove studnets for not maintaining a certain level of decorum, David outlined the plans he has for the current school year.

A Graduation Ball is planned for the 8th of October, and the 26th of November is set aside for an International Dinner at which dishes from several countries will be served.

Cultural Day is tentatively set for February 1977, and the next Yearbook would be a definite improvement over the appalling issue we were treated to last May.

A fortnightly Newsletter too is on the cards, and this should serve as a vehicle for keeping students more informed about what the Committee has in mind.

Pubs, film shows, dances, and concerts featuring articles from outside of the school, shows also become a regular feature of life at St. James Campus during the year.

Discussing organizational innovations, David declared that he would like to see all School Clubs streamlined through the Student Council, in order to ensure that "all activities are put on for the benefit of all students and not just for a small group".

Emphasizing that he would be looking into students' personal problems, with a view towards ensuring that students' rights are not jeopardized, the soft-spoken President stressed that he does not want to get into conflict with Administration, but in fact, is getting maximum co-operation from the powers-that-be, and the Principal is "tremendous".

He also indicated that the members of his committee, though inexperienced, are nevertheless receptive to new ideas and more together as a team.

For handsome Cliff Mendez, this is his first excursion into organizational activities.

The new Social Convenor, who hails from the land of the humming-bird, sees his duty as one in which he has to make students "feel as part of the Campus". So far, he said, "the job is pretty routine and enjoyable."

He relishes the rapport with the students, and he experiences their total cooperation, adding that the aim of the Student Council is to "bring about total togetherness of all students."

In his official capacity, he has met with the Principal and the Deans of the various faculties, and his impression was that they are "pretty favourable to a point", indicating that the Deans tend to be of the opinion that time off from classes is detrimental to class schedules.

Cliff opined that the new crop of students are more active in College affairs, precisely because "they are more aware of what is going on". However, he was at pains to point out that the last Student Council did "a pretty good job", although, he indicated, that the incumbent committee is "working harder".

The second-year Graphic Arts student welcomes any constructive advice, reclaiming "I am a very easy fellow to talk to."

Ebullient Pablo Leacock is the new Vice-President, and his verve and enthusiasm became apparent after knowing him for a short while.

He also plans to attempt to streamline the various ethnic clubs on Campus, and he intends to do this by actually attending meetings called by these clubs, and encouraging more intercourse among the various members.

He would like to see positive steps taken to remove barriers between students, and wants clubs to adopt a more liberal policy. Citing an obvious pitfall in the present system, the third semester Electronic Data Processing student gave the example of a Chinese Student Union meeting which was attended and which was conducted entirely in the vernacular, but in which an interpreter had to be employed for his benefit.

Pablo was associated with organizational and community work for a long time. A native Trinidadian, he also dabbled in Church organizations and Sports Clubs.

He likes his new role of activities and finds his role as Vice-President less strenuous than the "top spot".

His philosophy is that students should not be satisfied with academic studies alone, but should also pursue extracurricular activities as well. In reply to a question concerning the reaction of Administration to the new council, the Vice-President who presently wears a Yul Brynner haircut stated that "we do not like confrontation. Our policy is compromise," he asserted.

He regards the Council as a liaison between students and teachers, and describes the relations between the two as "amicable".

Describing the Student Council as "functioning historically for Business & Commerce students" — since they were the best supporters of the Council — Pablo would like to see other students, "even Manpower", play more active roles in the affairs of the College.

Touching on the question of the part the FULL MOON newspaper should play in College affairs, the bearded Vice-President declared that he was not too happy with some of the contents of last issues. He cited the example of the article dealing with prejudice in a bygone issue. This article he said was a minority view which was slow to extreme proportions.

A college paper "should not thrive on sensationalism," he said. "It should take a more sober view."

Mohammed "Ashraf" Marfatia was born in Pakistan. He is the financial secretary of the Student Council.

He thinks that the teachers at St. James are doing a job but declares that some teachers "don't get close to students". In this respect he gave the example of the last picnic to Centre Island at which only a few teachers attended.

Sports minded? We want you

It is unfortunate that the St. James Campus doesn't have a gym. This should not prevent us, however, from taking part in all Athletic events of George Brown College.

Training and practice sessions are held everyday at Kensington Campus (College & Spadina) and Casa Loma (Spadina & Davenport). You can be part of any Athletic event at either Intramural or Varsity levels.

We are seriously looking for interested students to form teams to represent St. James Campus against the other G.B.C. campuses in any many areas of Sports as possible.

Later in October there will be a table tennis competition at St. James Campus. We will then challenge the other campuses for the G.B.C. championship. We will also be looking into the possibilities of other such competitions in different athletic events if enough students from this campus are interested.

If you need more information on how you can be part of our team, at Intramural or Varsity levels, or just for recreation purposes, please contact room 124.

He would like to see Pub Nights being sponsored, and has suggested holding a painting exhibition featuring the works of Graphic Arts impaired students.

He said that the "school spirit" here is "alive" declaring that many are enthusiastic about various facets of college life.

The fourth semester Business Administrative student who lists as his hobbies, pinball and table tennis; asserted that the last yearbook was "an insult", although he says the last committee had only one month to put together the magazine. However, he promised that the forthcoming issue would be "superior" and would contain news and pictures of all school activities during the current year.

Chatting with some students, comments ranged from disinterest in the Committee, to an admiration of what little it has accomplished this far.

However, most seem to be of the opinion that it has not been functioning long enough for an accurate estimate of its worth to be formed.

It is hoped, however, that David and his team would show themselves worthy of the trust that has been placed on their shoulders, and would acquit themselves with dignity and distinction during their term of office.

PLANS FOR YEARBOOK

We want you to remember the time you have spent at George Brown College. A number of years from now you will be able to look back to your days at College.

This can only happen if we have a 1976-1977 Yearbook to be proud of. To ensure that at the end of the school year in May, 1977, we have the best yearbook ever published at George Brown College we will need your co-operation.

Our Yearbook for this year will be hand-covered with about 144 pages. Some of these will be in colour. We will ensure that every student has an individual photograph in the Yearbook. Photographs of all important events will also be included.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by Sydney Omarr

ARIES

Tensions built up during the last week of September and the first part of October abate as the month progresses. You may be displeased with the actions of a business associate or partner, but this attitude should change, perhaps so gradually that you will not be aware of the altered viewpoint for some time. There are pressures about which you know nothing that are affecting the whole situation.

TAURUS

You reach potential this month by being extremely cooperative with coworkers, associates, and tradespeople in particular. Favors are tendered unexpectedly by individuals whom you have helped in the past. Do what is within your power to strengthen employer - employee relationships. Use your innate sense of perseverance to rideout a minor crisis.

GEMINI

There is an upsurge in energy during this provocative thirty-one day interval. Around the 8th, plan an important social engagement with close friends. New acquaintances may be somewhat controversial.

The financial picture could be better, but as long as you do not go overboard with expenditures, your books should balance. Always keep an eye on the budget.

CANCER

During the first three weeks of this engaging period, take on the task of improving your home base of operations. A cleaning and "ridding out" of the premises is certainly in keeping with the fall season. Be ruthless in discarding possessions that have outlived their usefulness.

LEO

Friends, social engagements, wishes and dreams are highlighted during the major portion of this somewhat unsettling month. You may be torn between pushing yourself forward professionally and retiring into a domestic or home situation that calls for extreme patience. You are strong-willed Leo, and if I may say so, rather opinionated, but especially during this interval you must use great objectivity reassessing certain values.

VIRGO

This is an important month that could affect a domestic arrangement or matters that involve the home base of operations. A move of residence may be indicated around the 23rd that could have to do with your occupation, particularly if you were on August 23rd or between eight and ten p.m.

LIBRA

You step on a high plateau during the remaining twenty-two days of your birthday period. With energies directed toward both business and personal projects, there is still a yearning for greater adventure. The point here is not to pine for "what you do not have," but to settle down and work out current enterprises to advantage.

SCORPIO

This is a superb time of year for putting your investigative powers to use. Facts should be flawlessly researched, so when a presentation is made to one in authority, details are available to back up your views. Co-workers, underlings, those with whom you deal, are very business-like over the 8th, so their authoritative tone should be matched.

SAGITTARIUS

Socially, there will be many demands this month, but you should not permit a good time to interfere with professional interests. Quiet periods will be needed for proper balance. Clear "haze in the gray matter" with meditative pursuits, particularly around the 3rd, when you can experience a rich, satisfying personal revelation.

CAPRICORN

This is an important month career-wise.

An occurrence that takes place around the 8th, having to do with your home base of operations, could come to fruition near the 23rd. This event is apt to colour your future for quite some time to come. Do not look to the negative side: Be optimistic.

PISCES

The past, early training and educational patterns figure importantly during the first nineteen days of this rather beguiling period. There is a yearning to return to past times, places, events, people. Rejoice in looking back at different periods of your life, then return to the present without remorse.

AQUARIUS

You ride high on a wave of euphoria during the first three weeks of this expressive thirty-one day interval. Your social life may improve to the point where not all events can be fitted into your hectic schedule. Special talents, studies of a cultural nature, and travel are particularly favored. You are more kindly disposed toward your fellow man. Your spouse or a close personal friend can provide an affectionate background.
